

MARTIN HAINES

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Martin Haines is a studio potter living in Nieu Bethesda producing a range of handmade flatware i.e. plates and platters, specializing also in the production of tiles. He works mainly in the colours of blue and white inspired by traditional early European porcelain, namely Delftware.

His work is decorative incorporating seventeenth Century motives with contemporary designs. It is important to the artist that the work unlike fine porcelain has more of a rustic finish giving it a more tactile 'peasant pottery' feel.

He has recently, to great acclaim, been making a series of works that either include a rabbit motif or are actually figures thereof.
